New Escambia County Equestrian Center Manager

County Administrator Charles R. “Randy” Oliver is pleased to announce the appointment of the new Escambia County Equestrian Center Manager, Pamela Mauldwin. Mauldwin was selected after a review of 60 candidates that applied for the position.

“We are excited about the future for the Equestrian Center and look forward to the multi-use facility being taken to a new level. There are untapped event markets and sponsorship opportunities that Mrs. Mauldwin will be tasked with bringing to the equestrian center. I welcome Mrs. Mauldwin to the county and look forward to the growth of this great facility,” said Parks and Recreation Director Michael Rhodes.

Mauldwin is currently employed by the United Way of Escambia County, where she serves as the Volunteer and Social Media Coordinator. She is also presently the editor of Hooper Publications, a monthly magazine focusing on the equestrian community. Her professional history includes a background in marketing, public relations and management. In 2003, Mauldwin earned her Bachelor’s Degree from University of West Florida in Communications.

Mauldwin will begin her employment on February 28.
